

Singing is an important part of music education and as such should be incremental with respect to its teaching. Although technique does play a more important role in the junior grades it is important that it does not detract from the child's enjoyment of singing. It is important to remember that a holistic approach to music education deals as much with the aesthetic and spiritual development of the individual as it does with the cognitive. When assessing singing in the junior grades, look for the following:

- Melody: Melody is defined as the part of the song that is either sung or hummed. It is the whole puzzle; pitch, dynamics and tempo are all pieces of this puzzle. When assessing the child's ability to sing melodically, use the melody provided on the CD as a guide. The child should be able to sing along in a pleasing fashion.
- Pitch: Pitch deals with highness and lowness of sound. This can be assessed by listening to how accurately the child sings each part of the melody (i.e. how closely it resembles what is heard on the CD).
- Dynamics: Dynamics deals with the ability of the student to sing softly or loudly at the appropriate places. Once again this is another piece of the whole puzzle. Use the CD as a guide. The important thing to remember is that both the loud and soft voice must remain pleasing and recognizable. Whispering and yelling are not acceptable.
- Tempo: Tempo deals with the speed of the song (i.e. fast or slow). This is the fourth part of the puzzle. When the student sings, s/he should be singing in time with the accompaniment provided on the CD.
- Tone: Tone deals with the quality of the sound. In order to produce a good clear tone both the mouth and throat must remain open (resembling a yawn). To ensure that the throat remains open and relaxed when singing, the child should maintain a wide smile that reveals the teeth. As well, the student should implement correct breathing technique by expanding the diaphragm rather than singing from the throat. Check to see that the shoulders are not lifting as the child takes a breath. As a visual during assessment, have the students place their hands over their stomachs. If correct breathing technique is taking place the students' hands should move out while inhaling and in as breath is released.

The following appendices have been included to assist teachers in both assessment and evaluation. These rubrics may be used as a form of summative assessment prior to reporting periods, as a guide to assist with formative assessment, or as a means of deriving evaluation strategies. Should the teacher choose, s/he may also assign numerical or letter grade values to each of the levels in order to create an annotated marking guide that s/he may use for evaluation. Rubrics may be used in whole, in part, or combined.
